

Just for a Moment

Always when, so it is there.
It is the big things and it is the small ones.

And the big count the most, I think, most pulling, most on a purpose and with that a lot of the small matters disappear on the way,
problems in present time will also disappear, yes, one self disappears, from the small nooks and crannies, where one sits hidden and stuck.

And the occasion is most often the person in front of you, because that person is an immortal being and with that person you can travel millions of years back and millions of years ahead all in a short moment, for the time of eternity is exactly now and can embrace as much earthly time as it wishes in the moment.

So let us expand those moments, and make a golden age.

Einar